

Information And Consent For Body Thermage

What is Thermage?

Thermage is a non-invasive treatment that delivers tighter skin, and healthier collagen. It employs a patented radiofrequency technology called ThermoCool that has been clinically proven to tighten and gently shrink the skin to smooth out wrinkles and tighten laxity. The incision-free procedure has no down time and can be performed on patients of all skin types.

How does it work?

The ThermoCool device delivers a controlled amount of radiofrequency energy, which uniformly heats a large volume of collagen in the deeper layers of the skin while simultaneously protecting the outer layers of skin with cooling. This causes deep structures in the skin to tighten, and over time, new and remodelled collagen is produced.

What does the Thermage procedure feel like?

With each touch of the ThermoTip you will experience a deep heating sensation as the energy is delivered to the skin. This is accompanied by an audible tone. The physician must maintain contact with the skin so that it can be effectively cooled, so it is important not to move away from the ThermoTip. The physician will be guided by your feedback during the treatment and can reduce the energy if the heat becomes intolerable. A vibration is used with the treatment tip to evenly disperse the energy to make treatment more comfortable.

How long will the results last?

Immediately after a Thermage procedure your skin should feel tighter and smoother. We will compare before and after photographs to view this immediate lift. You will have additional tightening over the next six months, when photographs will again be taken for comparison. Unpublished reports indicate that results may continue for 24 months or longer. Because all individuals are different it is not possible to predict exact benefits, and some individuals may need additional treatments to achieve the desired effects. Results will be enhanced by maintaining a stable weight and avoiding excessive sun exposure, smoking and alcohol intake.

What are the possible risks and complications involved?

Although complications following Thermage are infrequent, there are some risks associated with treatment which include:

Bruising and Swelling: Resolves in several days to several weeks.

Erythema or Blanching: Mild reddening or whitening of the skin for several hours.

Pigment changes: Less than 0.05% of patients have reported hyper-pigmentation

Burns and Blisters: Less than 0.3% reported cases

Surface Irregularities: Including dents, rippling and ridges in the skin which may not develop until a month after treatment. Low incidence of 0.2%, with most resolving naturally, or with soft tissue fillers.

Pain and altered sensation: Some patients have reported heat related discomfort and transient aching. A small number of patients, less than 0.1% have reported tingling, numbness and temporary Paralysis.

Please advise your doctor or Aesthetic Nurse if you have any forthcoming social engagements so a personal evaluation can be made as to any possible downtime associated with the treatment that could impact on your enjoyment of the event. Every individual can react differently to treatment so it is important to alert your practitioner.

Thermage cannot be performed on patients with pacemakers or defibrillators, during pregnancy or breastfeeding, or while undergoing accutane treatment. It should not be used on diabetics or on patients with auto immune disease. It may also cause an eruption of the Herpes Simplex virus
